B.S.-M.E.

Greetings!

On this glorious occasion of Diamond Jubilee of Smt. Mithibai Motiram Kundnani College of Commerce & Economics, I extend my heartiest greetings to Principal, staff and students.

Diamond Jubilee of any institution is proud occasion indeed.

MMK College has achieved greater heights over the last 60 years. It was established by our founding father Vidyasagar Principal K.M. Kundnani, a great educationist who had already established educational institutions of Arts, Science, Commerce and Law, realized the extreme need of Commerce College in Bandra area, which was considered then as suburbs of Bombay.

We appreciate efforts of current Principal Dr. Kishore Peshori for his unique initiative of bringing out the Annual College Magazine 'Beacon' in Digital form. In this era where literary works are produced, processed, published and documented through the digital and cyber media, the college e-magazine is an endeavor to keep pace with the changing nature of readership and accessibility.

We are sure that the e-magazine will reach out to a larger circle of readers both within and beyond the college.

My warm wishes to entire fraternity of MMK College. I am confident that with benign leadership of Dr. Kishore Peshori and excellent faculty, the institute will move farther in its mission and vision and continue maintaining its glory.

My best wishes for next milestone of Platinum Jubilee.

Editorial

Robert Louis Stevenson has rightly said, "Life is not a matter of holding good cards, but of playing a poor hand well." In these unprecedented times of loss, grief and instability, an important resiliency step is being able to adapt to the feelings in healthy ways. We can't make feelings go away, but we can move through them.

Countries all around the world have certainly had to face major challenges and upheavals as a result of Covid-19. We have had to adjust and change the way we do things, with many sectors not left unscathed. However, in the midst of this pandemic we have found ways to carry on - at a distance.

We at MMK have been going digital in the midst of Covid-19 crisis.

This E- magazine gives an insight into the MMKites' way of life, their creativity and activities during these trying times. This magazine is a platform that exhibits the literary skills and innovative ideas of teachers and students.

Corona virus has altered our life including our education system. Let's avoid the negativities and look into positivity. Our homes have become schools and colleges and parents have become teachers too. Unimaginable! But it's a fact we have to live with now and invariably it is happening- whether we are rich or poor, far or near. E-learning has emerged as the best way of imparting education.

I thank all who contributed to this endeavour. My sincere advice to the students – Do not lose hope. Concentrate on the silver lining amidst the thickest and darkest cloud at present times. We, at MMK College, hope to see you all soon- refreshed and rejuvenated.

We avail this opportunity to express our gratitude to our Principal Dr.CA Kishore Peshori, under whose valuable guidance, our team could present the current edition of Beacon. We express our gratefulness to the Management, Principal, Vice Principals, teaching staff and administrative staff for their incessant support to bring out the current edition of Beacon. I acknowledge the sincere efforts put in by the Rinkal stationery for bringing out the current edition of Beacon.

We sign off with the words of Ruskin Bond, 'until death comes, all is life....So lets celebrate life!

Department of Commerce

It has always the goal of the department to indoctrinate lifelong learning skills amid the students of the college and make them fathom the importance of obtaining an in-depth understanding of an issue or an event, a better example in this aspect would be the case study approach which helps to explore complex issues in their real life settings. Group of six students from B.com under guidance of HOD participated in the case study competition organized by Aditya Institute of Management Studies and Research in February 2021. The competition has provided the students with much needed exposure of methodological considerations with regard to designing, planning analysis and interpretation of case studies. The conference also highlighted the much needed conceptual clarity of thoughts while analyzing the case studies.

BBI

The COVID-19 pandemic has severely impacted many industries and increasing economic hardship for Consumers, Businesses and Communities. Impact of Covid-19 has been multiple related to social, educational, economic, political, agricultural, psychological levels and many more. The COVID-19 is another hurdle that the banks are faced with. NPAs, NBFC crisis etc.

However, this pandemic needs to be relooked at with additional steps like interest rate reduction, extension of moratorium, subscription to corporate papers like commercial papers, Bonds etc., which will go some way in reducing the pains faced by the industries.

The life insurance industry is no exception, particularly given the increasingly global nature of many insurers and their sizable investment portfolios. Analysis of previous epidemics suggests a sharp rise in demand for term and health insurance policies during these periods. It is difficult to quantify the rise in premium volumes due to Covid-19 as the intensity and spread of this pandemic in India remains unclear. Life and health insurance companies will likely be the key beneficiaries of any rise in volumes.

BMS

The Pandemic led all academic institutions to go online in the academic year of 2020-21 and our college and BMS department were no exceptions. The department organized a number of online sessions for the students, apart from their regular lectures, to continue enhancing their knowledge, despite the constraints.

The BMS department conducted an induction program for the benefit of SYJC students and aspirants for the BMS course on 6th July '20. The programme aimed to help students get an idea of the course, thereby enabling them to take informed decisions. The same was aired online on YouTube in collaboration with BIAP.

In order to acclimatize the TY and SY students through the nuances of online education, the department organized an Orientation Programme in the month of August. They were reassured that no academic loss would happen due to online lectures. An intro to MS TEAMS, the software used by the college was also provided.

On 5th September, Teachers Day, the SYBMS students surprised the teachers by preparing a 'Thankyou Video', thereby showing their gratitude to all the faculty teaching them.

FYBMS students were given a warm welcome in the month of October, where they were provided information about their lectures and course.

In the month of January, a session for the students on 'Turning Adversities into Opportunities' was organized in collaboration with BMM. A woman entrepreneur shared her journey of the struggle and success in managing her business during the Lockdown.

In order to streamline the minds of students and encourage them to broaden their knowledge base in the area of Finance and Economics, the BMS department in collaboration with BFM initiated the idea of a club. After consultation with students and opinion polls, the name 'FINECO' was selected.

The Inaugural Ceremony of the club was organized in the month of February, '21 by the departments and a session on 'Importance of Investments' was conducted by Mrs. Nisha Shah (ex-Citibank), where she gave an overview of the need for investments at an early age and threw light on the various avenues for investments.

In March, a session on 'Journalism as a Career' was jointly organized by BMM and BMS department, where celebrity journalist Ms. Rica Roy from NDTV engaged with the students.

On 8th March on the occasion of 'Women's Day', the FINCEO CLUB released a video cheering all the girl members of the CLUB.

Under FINECO, an online management game was organized for the students, to acclimate them to the world of business, 'BINGO BRANDED', on 5th April '21.

A much sought-after session on 'Decoding Crypto Currencies', was held by FINECO, on the 10th of April, where the students were fortunate enough to exclusively get an introductory session from, Mr. Sankarson Banerjee, CIO at RBL Bank. This academic year has been a challenging one compared to all the previous batches due to the pandemic. Our department has yet tried their best to face this challenge and made sure that no student should miss out on any opportunities.

We began the year by conducting an Orientation Program for the students to help them familiarize with the course structure of BAF and also the various facilities provided by our college.

We then conducted a British Council associated Training for IELTS examination. This helped pave the way for students to learn about the various formalities required for further education in different countries.

Further into the semester, we held a Financial Literacy campaign in order to help students to use their ability to understand and effectively use their financial skills in an appropriate manner.

We also conducted an activity of Food & Art Work during the pandemic in which the students participated with great enthusiasm.

Our students also participated at Global Money Week which focused on raising awareness about Economic Citizenship by keeping youth actively engaged regarding the same.

We then conducted an Earth Day campaign in association with Financial Planning Academy to raise awareness among our students about protecting our planet Earth and its environment.

Later in the year, we will launch GST Training in collaboration with the Goods and Service Tax Practitioners Association of Maharashtra. We aim at teaching the students the basics and importance of GST in the modern era.

Due to the current pandemic, the academic year 2020-21 was conducted in a different mode for all the educational institutions. Of all the challenges faced by the institutions everyone was able to overcome such hurdles and give their best in such turbulence time also. Similarly, the BFM department of the college was successful to organize the following activities for their students:

The year started with conducting the induction programme for the pass out students of SYJC on 10th July 2020. The programme briefly explained about the curriculum, co-curricular and extracurricular done in the department so as to make the young students aware about the course and help them in taking the right decision for their further studies.

The department had also organized an “Investment Awareness Programme” in the month of August 2020, by Mr. Nikunj Sharma for the students of SYBFM & TYBFM. The workshop made students aware about the importance of investments and also the risk involved in it.

In the month of August, the department welcomed the FYBFM students by conducting the orientation programme for the same. The brief introduction of the college and the department were given in the orientation programme.

To benefit our students in a better and efficient way it was decided by the department in collaboration with the BMS department to start with a 'club' which will not only provide practical knowledge to our students but will also train them in such a way that they are well absorbed by the markets. Thus, for this purpose the “FINECO” club was introduced by both the departments. The inaugural ceremony of the club was organized in the month of February by the departments and a session on “Types of Investment avenues and their importance” was conducted by Ms. Nisha Shah.

On 5th April, the club organized a management game “Bingo Branded” for the students of the department.

On 10th April, a much awaited seminar was organized by the club named “Decoding Crypto Currency” by Mr. Sankarson Banerjee, CIO at RBL bank. The seminar briefly highlighted students about the working of the crypto currency, the risk involved in it and the current conflict going on for the same.

IQAC REPORT 2020-21

In the last one year, we have all been passing through one of the most challenging phases in history. This unexpected pandemic turned our routine lifestyle completely upside down. Yet, as educational institutions, we were able to achieve many milestones and cross over many hurdles to set up new benchmarks towards quality improvement and sustenance in the management of institutions and in the fields of teaching and learning. During this lockdown period, a number of collaborative activities were organized among the sister institutions of the HSNC board. A very significant move is that we had many webinars, tie ups and FDPs where we could get together like never before, and organise activities which could benefit each other, the students, teachers and admin staff of our colleges.

Moment of Calm :-

The Department of Sindhi and NSS along with IQAC organised a program " Ruh Rihyan" to commemorate the birth anniversary of Dada J.P.Vaswani.The programme was aimed to celebrate the Moment of Calm on 2nd Aug 2020 at 5 pm in an online mode. The program was followed by Behrana Saheb from 6 pm to 8 pm .

The college also registered with Coursera to equip students and teachers with new skill courses which was very beneficial for them. Online placement drives were initiated. E-prospectus, E-magazine, E-library magazine were the other initiatives started during this period. Funkiria, Enthusia, Karavaan and such cultural events went online. Examinations were conducted with help from Mastersoft and Eklavya, using online mode. New vocational courses were started. It was an uphill task, but the changes took place slowly and steadily.

One day webinar On Institutional quality management (NAAC preparation strategy) :-

This webinar was jointly organized by RUSA, Maharashtra and HSNC University and hosted by IQAC HR college of Commerce and IQAC Smt. MMK College of Commerce and Economics on 27th November 2020.

To change the world, we need to change the academic world, he emphasized. He spoke about the need for establishing certain checks and balances for ensuring quality in education, for rewarding excellence and for imbuing quality culture in education. To achieve this, we must move from Best practices to Next practices, he said.

Dr. CA. Niranjana Hiranandani, Provost, HSNC university, emphasized on the need for bringing about paradigm change in education, about the importance of devising the contents of syllabus to align with the requirements of industry. He inspired teachers to be gurus and strive to make our nation the education center of the world just as it is considered to be the hub for Information Technology.

The first technical session was by professor, Dr. Vani Laturkar. She focused on the new rules for NAAC parameters and how to inculcate quality systems in institutions. She explained the vision for the NAAC process in terms of quality enhancement, self-evaluation, sustenance, initiation and promoting culture of quality enhancement. It is necessary for an institution to get accreditation under NAAC for its survival and growth, for obtaining various grants, for starting new courses and programmes, for obtaining autonomous status. The process of NAAC has undergone change as the emphasis has shifted from subjective to objective, offline to online, qualitative to quantitative, college centric to student centric, ICT based functioning and system generated scores. The new concept of third-party validation of data, system generated scores, importance of Student Satisfaction Survey (SSR) was explained by her. The emphasis now, is on Stakeholders' requirement and satisfaction, she said. The process of accreditation along with key indicators, strictures relating to data deviations, criteria wise weightages were explained by Dr. Vani in great detail.

Dr. Bhole conducted the second technical session on the role of IQAC in the assessment and accreditation process. IQAC is termed as the Think tank as it focuses on areas that need attention and impact assessment. Importance of preparing a perspective plan for the next 5 to 10 years as part of goal setting initiative, conveying it to all stakeholders, developing systems for self-assessment involving feedback and SSR was dealt in detail. Are we considering our students as products or as customers? He challenged the teachers to start thinking from a new perspective.

As part of setting benchmarks, key performance indicators are to be identified. Decisions as to what to benchmark, who to benchmark, collection and analysis of data, gap analysis and gap filling are an important part of the role and responsibilities of IQAC. Sir also explained the practical difficulties in implementing ideas and the need to overcome them.

The third technical session on Documentation for NAAC was conducted by Prof. C.N. Raval. He focused on what is new in documentation. He enumerated on the mode in which documents are to be submitted. He explained about data which is readily available and data which is to be created. Lastly, he explained about each and every document that is required to be uploaded criteria-wise. Since 70% is based on data provided and 30 % on Student Satisfaction Surveys, it is extremely important to develop the quality culture of our institutions, he said.

As part of the conclusion of the webinar, question and answer session was moderated by the Vice principal of Smt. MMK College, Mr. Mani Iyer, the IQAC Coordinator Ms. Chippy Bobby was the rapporteur and gave the overview of the entire session.

FACULTY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME ON "THE 2C'S FOR TRANSFORMATIONAL LEARNING"

The FDP was conducted by the Bombay Teachers' Training College in association with three other institutions under HSNC Board such as H. and G.H.Mansukhani Institute of Management, Dr. L.H.Hiranandani College of Pharmacy and Smt. M.M.K. College of Commerce and Economics on 19th March 2021. The FDP was conducted online for the benefit of the faculty and students of these four institutes. The 2 C's in the programme refers to Collaborative and Constructionist approach to learning.

The Introduction session consisted of the welcome address by dignitaries. Dr. Swati Sabale enumerated the importance of the theme of the conference. Dr. Parag took us through the journey of online methodologies and ideas adopted by the HSNB Board colleges during lockdown and spoke about the importance of decreasing the gap in absorption of knowledge by the students'. Dr. Kishore Peshori observed that digitization and disruption due to covid led to globalization of education. He underlined the importance of reimagining our paradigm in the education sector and trying to reinvent oneself as a teacher.

The first session started with Dr. Bhagwan Balani, Principal of the host college and Dean, HSNB University, explained the purpose of collaboration as the ability to learn from one another and identify potential learning destinations. He underlined the importance of outcome based education as the need of the hour as learning would be optimum. He gave examples of collaboration at various levels in the industry and enumerated its importance in the field of education. He enumerated the principles of collaborative learning.

The second speaker Dr. Lubna Mansuri explained cooperative learning strategies as Jigsaw, Think-Pair-Share, Circle-the-Stage and Agree-Disagree Line-ups. In the learning pyramid model, lecture is least effective and teaching others as a process of learning is most effective, followed by practice by doing, group discussion, demonstration, etc. Engagement, exploration, transformation, presentation, reflection contributes most effectively to learning. She explained the concept of JIGSAW learning as research based cooperative learning. Participants were made into groups and practically experienced JIGSAW based learning techniques.

The third speaker of the morning session Dr. Priya Pillai, gave a practical session on the second strategy of cooperative learning, Think-Pair-Share strategy as part of creating a personalized learning environment in the classroom. Under this, the teacher poses a question, observation or challenge. Students are required to think and write out answers individually. They then pair up and combine their best answers. They share their ideas and learn about the ideas of others. This contributes to collaborative learning.

The morning session ended with a vote of thanks by Ms. Dyan Gonsalves. The programme was attended by around 60 faculty members and students. The techniques of collaborative learning can be used in making classroom teaching more engaging for the students.

Dr. Neelu Verma started the afternoon session with her class on constructivist pedagogy. She explained that constructivism is not one theory but a coming together of many instructional approaches.

In this new paradigm of pedagogy, we believe that a student instead of being taught by the teacher, the teacher becomes a facilitator to find out things within him. The purpose of this approach is to ignite the passion and curiosity in the student.

Dr. Neelu elucidated further that the following things should happen in a constructivist classroom - Inquiry, Action, Imagination, Invention, and Interaction, Hypothesizing and personal reflection.

She also discussed various strategies for instruction and learning. Through the 7Es model, it was possible to develop Higher Order Thinking Skills among our students. The 7Es are Elicit, Engage, Explore, Explain, Elaborate, Evaluate and Extend.

Dr. Raju Talreja took up the last session on SQ3R strategy. She spoke about various strategies to achieve higher order thinking skills.

Dr. Talreja highlighted the importance of the SQ3R strategy – Survey, Query, Read, Recall and Review, which is totally student focused. According to her, these techniques are very effective because these help the learners take responsibility for their own learning. We as teachers empower them to take up this onus, which is very important in these challenging times.

All the sessions were highly interactive with the participants going into many break out room sessions and also giving answers through the chat box and other technical methods.

It was a very well organised FDP where the participants were kept constantly engaged as they learnt the various concepts of collaborative learning. The need to construct and collaborate knowledge together as emphasised by Dr. Balani, truly bore fruit in the form of this FDP, as the four sister institutions came together to engage in a time of exploration, reflection and practical learning.

From the Desk of Editor:

The COVID-19 pandemic has severely impacted many industries and increasing economic hardship for Consumers, Businesses and Communities. Impact of Covid-19 has been multiple related to social, educational, economic, political, agricultural, psychological levels and many more. The 'Lockdown' and 'Social Distancing' has been recognized as the only method to control the spread of the pandemic and almost every country has adopted this method. Although the technology to facilitate remote work has been around for over a decade, COVID-19 has forced hundreds of millions of people worldwide to engage in a sudden, massive, real-time experiment with remote work arrangements.

However, this pandemic created an opportunity for change in pedagogical approaches and introduction of Virtual Education in all levels of education. Due to pandemic coronavirus schools, colleges and other educational institutions are witnessing a shift towards online learning. Education is defined more innovatively today as compared to what it was centuries ago when teaching originally began.

This model built the bridge through which learning was delivered in a manner that helped create and develop the most brilliant minds and there was also a development of a whole new era of education.

Online education in India has witnessed an enhanced acceptance over a few years. It is becoming an integral part of the school, colleges and even in offices across India. Easy availability of the internet is the primary reason for the growth of online education in India. Between 2019 and 2020 the number of internet users in India increased by 128 million. For the first time, rural India has a greater number of internet users compared to urban India.

UGC and MHRD have launched many virtual platforms with online depositories, e-books and other online teaching/learning materials. Combination of the traditional technologies (radio, TV, landline phones) with mobile/web technologies to a single platform with all depositories would enhance better accessibility and flexibility to education. A large open on-line course (MOOC) is an internet course aimed toward limitless curiosity and open entry by way of the net. India is taken into account to be the largest marketplace for MOOCs after the USA.

However, digital learning is not without its challenges, since face-to-face interplay is perceived as the perfect sort of correspondence as in comparison with the relatively impersonalized nature of remote learning. The construction of the digital education infrastructure by the Government of India presently seems to be troublesome as a consequence of absence of price range. Further, remote learning depends on the dependable energy flexibly and common Web connectivity which can be a critical factor for Tier 2 and Tier 3 cities in India.

In spite of all limitations now the time has come to push India's economy towards solving all such Socio-economic issues. Inculcating a strong Higher Education Base with Online Learning in the light of futuristic Vision laid down by New Education Policy could be the right weapon of solving many such issues which have been inherited over Generations. All such efforts require a mindset towards "Continuous Research".

Keeping all such ideas in mind and heart I feel extremely delighted to bring out the Second Issue of E-Journal "MMK: ACE" with the Papers included from a community of Researcher, Academicians from different strata addressing various aspects of COVID-19 which was the central theme of Second Issue of E-Journal "MMK: ACE".

I extend my sincere gratitude to the Management of HSNC Board and our dear I/C Principal Dr. CA Kishore Peshori for their constant support and motivation towards a strong Research foundation.

My heartfelt thanks to the Editorial Board Members Dr. Megha Somani and Dr. Manikandan Iyer for guiding me on several fronts.

Finally, big thank you to Peer-reviewers and Publishing House for helping us in publishing this E-Journal. Last but not the least I would like to sincerely thank all the academicians' who have wholeheartedly contributed to this Second Issue of E-Journal "MMK: ACE".

I invite feedback and suggestions from our Readers, Researchers and Academicians for further improvement in E-Journal "MMK: ACE".

Principal Quote:

"I am very happy to observe that our Research Committee has been very active during this lockdown period and has successfully brought out the second volume of our Ace Online Research Journal, where academicians and students are given a platform to publish their research articles. Last year, our college had the privilege of hosting a mega event, i.e. the XXVII HSNC Board's International Economics Convention – 2019 from December 12TH to December 14TH 2019, where many enthusiastic researchers from various colleges including West Georgia University from the U.S.A, presented their research papers. At this Convention, we launched the first volume of our E-journal, ACE, which was an academic initiative to encourage our young, upcoming researchers. Little did we expect at that time, that this online mode of communication would become the order of the day, as we have been witnessing in these current times. Nevertheless, we are glad that it was an initiative taken in the right direction and at the right time.

The greatest gains of all times in history have always been research driven. Whether it was discovering a vaccine for Polio, or drugs to combat HIV, these were all borne out of research projects. Therefore, Research activities are fundamental to every society, and should be especially encouraged in educational institutions. As Scientists around the world are struggling with their research to find a vaccine for the COVID 19 virus, we realize that it is highly imperative to cultivate this research culture amongst our present generation. I am glad that the editorial team has chosen to have deliberations on this very topical theme of the impact of COVID 19 on various aspects of the Economy and Education sector. I appreciate all the academicians, scholars and students for their valuable contributions and the thoughts that they have shared through this journal.

I also applaud the initiative taken by my editorial board in their continuous efforts to inculcate research attitude and aptitude among our faculty and students.

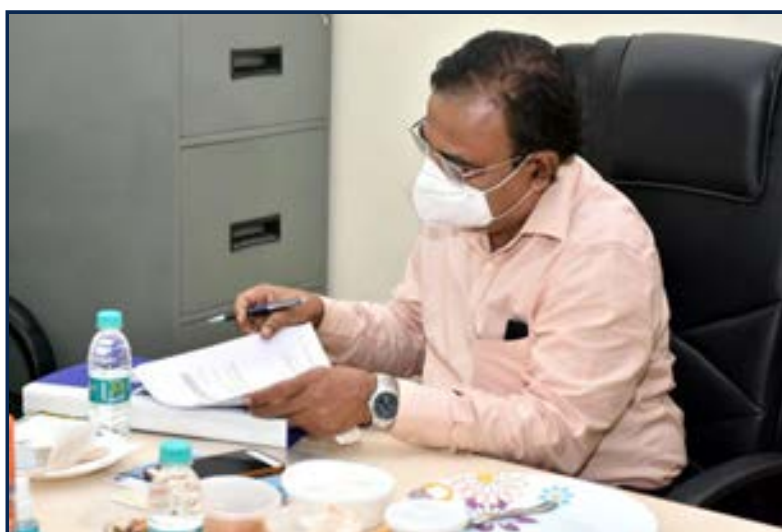

I wish them all the best and hope that the ideas shared through this volume will find a way in bringing out some positive outcome and encourage many more students and teachers to become good researchers and thinkers."

[C] OTHER RESEARCH INITIATIVES: -

- Local Inquiry Committee team of University of Mumbai members visited the College campus and monitored Research Centre details with reference to complete procedure related to Research Centre application in Accountancy.
- The Research Committee planned to facilitate students to take part in research activities such as "Avishkar" an Inter collegiate research convention which is conducted by University of Mumbai, Department of Student's Development.
- To create and further research culture among students in an atmosphere where they can give a free rein to their creative ideas and augment the research quotient. The Research Committee suggested the name of the research activity as "MMK scholars". He mentioned that there should be a theme, social significance of the idea, and its relevance as part of the details required to be submitted by students.

Principal Dr. CA Kishore Peshori suggested that in order to encourage the research culture and output from the students, annual prizes should be instituted for students with outstanding research contributions at the Annual Day Prize Distribution Programme.

NATURE'S CLUB REPORT 2020-21

During these hard times that the world is experiencing, it is easy to panic and get upset. Especially during the quarantine, when you feel isolated and very lonely. It may seem that your previous life would never return.

When the coronavirus spread, we were not worried at all. On the opposite, we wanted it to go on so that we would have longer holidays. We didn't realize that everything would be closed because of coronavirus and the holidays wouldn't be nearly as much fun as we expected.

The first week was fun, not many things were closed. But after a couple of days the virus spread to more people and everything got closed, so just sitting at home was getting boring.

So, we found other ways to entertain ourselves. We the students of SYBBI had done an Activity Allotted by our Coordinator called NATURE'S CLUB.

We took different topics related to nature like

- Tree Plantation
- Bird House
- Nature Photography
- Drawing Related to Natures
- Model of Rain Water Harvesting

TREE PLANTATION: -

We chose tree plantation as it was the month of June-July, which is rainy season as everywhere was greenery so we few students formed a group for tree plantation where each one of us has planted variety of plant at our house.

BIRD HOUSE: -

We choose Bird house as in the month of Rainy season birds are tentative to get wet in the rain so they need shelter for themselves some birds build their own nest to protect them and their little ones from rain, but sometimes due to bad weather birds are not save so the group of students thought to build house to provide shelter, food and clear water for them.

NATURE's PHOTOGRAPHY: -

Rainy weather may slow down some wild life, but for most part the natural world continues to go about its regular business. This is a great time for nature's photography. Like capturing the water droplets on flower petals, butterflies taking shelter under leaves, sunset, cloudy weather etc.

DRAWING RELATED TO NATURE: -

Nature is both all around us and deep within us. We are inseparable from nature - our bodies, lives and minds depend on the air we breathe and the food we eat. The earth sustains our very life force. Without the earth - without nature - what would we be? Artwork based on nature can take many forms and serve many purposes.

MODEL ON RAIN WATER HARVESTING:-

Rain Water harvesting is the act of collecting rainwater. The rainwater is stored for various kind of use and can be filled into the ground water apart from water tanks and other means of storage. Rainwater Harvesting is less expensive, helps in reducing the water bill, decreases the demand for water and reduces the need for imported water. The driving forces for considering rainwater harvesting as an option are because of the rapid increase in human population across the globe, the growing need for desalination plants, food security concerns and the fast depleting freshwater resources. One of our classmates has made a model on it.

Mumbai est la plus grande ville de l'Inde (par la population) et est la capitale financière et commerciale du pays car il génère 6,16% du PIB total.

Mumbai compte trois sites classés au patrimoine mondial de l'UNESCO, le terminus Chhatrapati Shivaji, les grilles d'Elephanta et l'ensemble victorien et Art déco.

VADA PAV
Vada pav, alternativement épicé vada pav, est un aliment de rue très populaire de Mumbai. Le plat consiste en une boulette de pommes de terre frites placée à l'intérieur d'un petit pain (pav) tranché presque en deux par le milieu. Il est généralement accompagné d'un ou plusieurs chutneys et d'un piment vert. Bien qu'il soit originaire de nourriture de rue bon marché à Mumbai, il est maintenant servi dans les stands de nourriture et les restaurants à travers l'Inde.

LOCAL TRAINS
Un voyage à Mumbai est incomplet sans une visite à la porte de l'Inde car l'enfer est plein de plaisir et d'excitation. Il peut être visité en famille et entre amis ou simplement par vous-même. C'est un lieu de rassemblement pour les habitants et un lieu prisé des jeunes et des couples. Vous pouvez profiter de la belle vue avec la mer d'Omni en arrière-plan et la merveille architecturale de renommée mondiale Taj hotel au premier plan, ainsi que la célèbre Marine Drive est à distance de marche.

"Dîner santé en France"

Les Français ont un dîner très léger. Cela peut être considéré d'une partie essentielle comme des légumes riches, des fruits, et la charcuterie ou des légumes d'accompagnement. Un plat principal est simple comme un steak de poulet grillé ou de saumon, suivi avec des pommes de terre, des pâtes ou des légumes verts et se terminent avec un morceau de fruit et un breuvage ou un dessert de chocolat.

Le plus grand repas de toute la journée en France est le déjeuner. Il comprend une soupe à l'oignon, une omelette française classique, une soupe de légumes à la pâte de basilic, une salade de fétion grillé à la niçoise, des pétanques à la provençale, etc.

NETAJI NOTRE INSPIRATION

Chez moi que nous entendons le nom de Subhash Chandra Bose, la première chose qui nous vient à l'esprit est un dictionnaire de mots "Jungla". Subhash Chandra Bose, populairement connu sous le nom de "Netaji", était un grand militaire, un combattant de la liberté et un patriote. Il est né à Cutback, Orissa le 23 janvier 1897 de Janki Nath Bose et Traibonati Devi. Son père Janki Nath Bose était un avocat bien connu de son temps et sa mère était une femme religieuse. Bose était un étudiant brillant qui a obtenu la deuxième position à l'examen d'inscription. Dès son plus jeune âge, il a commencé à lire sur Swami Vivekananda et Ramakrishna et a été influencé par leur enseignement. Il a obtenu son B.A. Honors à Presidency en 1918 à l'UNIVERSITÉ DE CALCUTTA. Il est ensuite allé en Angleterre en septembre 1919 pour poursuivre ses études. Il a été sélectionné pour les services civils à démissionner de son emploi dans la fonction publique et servir le gouvernement britannique. Bose avait entendu parler de l'agitation nationale en Inde.

Dès son plus jeune âge, Bose avait le tempérament nationaliste et le désintéressement britannique envers les Indiens le remplissait de rage. Pour servir le pays, il a rejoint le Congrès national indien. Bose a rejoint le mouvement de non-coopération lancé par Gandhi et sous son influence, Bose était un combattant de la liberté révolutionnaire connu pour avoir fondé l'Année Azadi Hind ou l'Armée nationale indienne. Pour son mouvement révolutionnaire, il avait été emprisonné à plusieurs reprises. Il a été accusé d'avoir des liens avec des mouvements révolutionnaires secrets et a été envoyé à la prison de Mandalay en Birmanie (Myanmar) où il a été contracté pour la tuberculose. Netaji a été élu président du parti du Congrès et a travaillé avec Nehru. Tous deux avaient une approche plus radicale et de gauche de l'indépendance, ce qui est devenu une raison pour les différences de Netaji avec Gandhi et d'autres dirigeants du parti du Congrès.

La contribution désintéressée de Netaji au mouvement d'indépendance de l'Inde et l'organisation et la direction de l'armée nationale indienne sont indéniables. Sa lutte pour l'indépendance a été mise en évidence lors du mouvement de désobéissance civile pour lequel il avait même été arrêté. En fait, il a été emprisonné 11 fois pour ses idéologies et l'usage de la force contre les Britanniques. Bose a été élu président du Congrès national indien à deux reprises, mais il a démissionné de son poste car il était contre la politique interne et étrangère du Congrès. Ensuite, il a quitté le parti et rejoint le parti pour chercher une alliance avec d'autres pays pour lutter contre les forces britanniques en Asie du Sud-Est. Plus tard, il est devenu accepté de faciliter la formation l'armée nationale indienne en Asie du Sud-Est. Il est devenu le commandant en chef de l'INA. L'INA a attaqué les régions du nord-est de l'Inde. Cette attaque a été malheureusement les capitulations des Japonais ont forcé à se retirer et à annuler le traité. On pense qu'il est mort dans un crash de plan le 18 août 1945. Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose était un héros national inoubliable qui a été inspiré pour la lutte pour la liberté du pays contre les Britanniques jusqu'à son dernier souffle. KSHRUTI JAIN

NETAJI NOTRE INSPIRATION

Le 23 janvier 2021, nous avons participé à une compétition d'écriture en français. Le thème était "Netaji, notre inspiration". Nous avons écrit une composition en français sur Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose. C'était une expérience très enrichissante et nous avons pu exprimer nos sentiments et nos idées sur le héros national indien. Cette compétition nous a permis de mieux comprendre l'importance de Netaji et son rôle dans l'histoire de l'Inde. Nous sommes fiers d'être des citoyens d'un pays qui a produit un tel héros. Netaji est une véritable inspiration pour nous tous. Son courage, son dévouement et son amour pour la patrie nous inspirent tous les jours. Nous espérons que sa lutte pour la liberté de l'Inde continuera d'être une source d'inspiration pour les générations futures.

ENGLISH LITERARY AND DEBATING SOCIETY

During these unprecedented, anxiety ridden Covid 19 pandemic times, expressing oneself through writing can be therapeutic. Creative expression can help to reflect on what is happening in our lives and also help to make sense of the world around us, along with venting out fears, hopes or expressing joys and optimism.

The English Literary and Debating Society held an Essay Writing Competition, in October 2020, on the topics :

1. My Lockdown Narrative
2. Atmanirbhar Bharat
3. Digital Platform: The Way Ahead

Very interesting and reflective essays were received from students of SYJC.

On 23rd January, 2021 the nation paid tribute to one of it's most beloved national heroes Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose on his 125th birth anniversary. MY LOCKDOWN NARRATIVE

Change. Growing up as a daughter of a migrant worker in the mean, suburban streets of magisterial Mumbai taught me at a very early age that life would be hard and change- would be the only constant. As someone who had experienced penury, ravenousness, abuse and abandonment at the most vital pedestals of life, I was no stranger to facing new challenges and thought I had seen the worst side of the world at an early age. Nothing could surprise me anymore. To my shocking dismay- I could not have been more wrong.

At the end of March, the corona virus pandemic hit the world like a giant hurricane and altered the ways of our lives forever. Jobs lost and families left to hunger. Nature had finally waged a war to avenge the way we treated mother Earth. Ironic, isn't it? My family was drastically affected by this. Father was debilitated from toiling away at the fragments of jobs he could find. Mother and I spent the day knitting scarves to sell and making a meal; using just enough to not finish the ration we had stored for the week. Had it not been for the kind volunteers at 'Aarohi: Help for all', we would not have even made it through one week of the pandemic.

They are a group of sympathetic strangers who manage to get enough donations to provide ration for thirty families in the vicinity. The group was in fact started by a bright, well-mannered teenager named Vriddhi Kithany. She managed to convince the elders of her family to contribute to the group and now it has gained a lot of popularity in addition to saving the lives of her fellow neighbors. Vriddhi eventually became one of my closest friends and I'm utterly grateful to have her in my life. Some people are truly like a beacon of light in a time of darkness.

My favorite part of the day was attending online classes. I had used up all the savings I had from working day and night at tea stalls and selling scarves to purchase a mobile phone. I loved learning. Compared to other kids, I always went to school solely for the joy of learning and not to achieve the highest grade. From learning about the Pythagoras theorem to marveling at Atticus Finch's approach to life, I was always fascinated by the knowledge bestowed upon me and I was always keen to learn more. The ridiculous shambles of the lockdown could not chain me from seeking the education I so longed for. Apart from reading my e-textbooks and guides for school I managed to borrow a few books from Vriddhi. For nights on I was mesmerized by the adventurous tales of Harry Potter and the wondrous biographies of eminent leaders like Nelson Mandela.

I hope to be a writer someday. Through my stories I want to inspire millions of girls around the world that no matter what situation they are in there is always a chance of a better tomorrow; only if you dare to dream. If I, a daughter of a migrant worker living in the mean, suburban streets of magisterial Mumbai can get an education through a five by three inch screen, you can do anything.

MY LOCKDOWN STORY

It was late evening, when I finished my assignment which was given in an online lecture and went to the balcony with a cup of coffee. The sky was becoming dark and all the birds were resting in their nest, reminding me about how we humans spend day and night working and returning home at night to our dear ones. However, now we are all at home due to the outbreak of covid 19. It was 24th March 2020 when the first lockdown was announced. I was in Wai at that time. And had to remain there for sometime as the transportation was shut down. Every year my brother and I visit Wai, a town in the outskirts of Maharashtra. Even this year we went to collect sacks of wheat from our farm, but we couldn't return. At first, it was very difficult to adapt to this situation, but later we got used to it.

Lockdown gave me a chance to explore myself and to enhance my artistic skills. I used to paint landscape, nature and all that which I couldn't complete during my college days. Spending time with my family also gave me great pleasure. In the morning I used to read books on topics such as achieving a goal, never lose hope, etc. At night we used to enjoy old albums, or life in my grandmother's age.

But lockdown gave more stress than pleasure. In mid April, I got a call that my father lost his job, so we had to return but still the transportation was not resumed. Every day we used to find ways and wish we could return to our home, just like how labourers and migrant workers were wishing to return to their dear ones. At last, at summer's end, transportation was allowed for migrants. Special trains with precautionary measures were started.

Finally, we returned to Mumbai. It was very tough to run a family without sufficient income. Still there are many houses in which there are weak or diagnosed member, their medical cost was also a challenge and burden. On the other hand, children, their expenditure was also increasing day by day, such as electronic devices for online lecture, books and so on. Many businesses were shut, many employees were removed, some change their line of business, many people started making mask. Even in our society, people started selling mask, but couldn't sell much. So, I came up with an idea. I organized an online meeting for my society. In meeting, many problems were discussed out of which some were high electricity bill, loss of business, etc. After hearing to all the problems, I gave an explanation about how the electricity bill was increasing. I explained them that one reason is high usage of electronic devices due to lockdown, usage of air coolers, fan etc. I even requested them to reduce the use of plastic, and try to reduce pollution because it is the reason why we are using air conditioners aggressively. Coronavirus waste has become a new form of pollution as single-use personal protective equipment (PPE) floods our oceans such as masks, gloves, hand sanitizer bottles and other waste. So, I suggested members to produce reusable masks or cloth masks which will be helpful in increasing the sale as well as saving the environment.

In mid monsoon my online lecture started which was a great initiative by our education department. The thing we never imagined was really happening, attending lectures at home. However, many of my friends including me faced many problems such as strain on eyes, headaches, technical problems and so on. It was not only me who was facing problems but everyone in the world. Many people were facing the problem of unemployment whereas in hospitals there was a shortage of staff as the number of cases was at peak. Still there is lockdown no doubt there are some allowances but we cannot say when it will end.

But I feel, we all can overcome this situation easily by following simple precautions like use of sanitizers, wearing a mask, and social distancing. We are not only the one who are facing this painful period, even our previous generations faced many incidents like partition, world war, year of great depression etc. Even they survived and overcame, so why can't we. Let's even assume, covid 19 is the most dangerous virus, but if you are following precautions, you are keeping your immune system strong, then what is Corona in front of us? Why should we be scared of it? Just keep social distancing, stay home and stay safe and we will definitely overcome this situation.

We all humans are reaping the benefits of this digital platform for our own good. With the help of this platform we all can have a bright future if we keep developing different and advanced software, it will definitely make our future digitized, developed and strong as now the competition in this world is increasing day by day and as responsible citizen we need to plan and think about our future that how we can secure it and find means to secure it , and one of them is our digital platform as said earlier. Digital platform is our awaited tomorrow. With the help of technology, we are able to present our content to many people at the same time. We can showcase our talent on social media which is the most influencing source of the digital platform. This helps to boost the confidence of the performer and know the opinions of a large audience. This is the personal growth of a person. As we all know the online sites for shopping digitally for eg- Amazon, flipkart etc which is useful as we can shop anytime according to our convenience.

It is a good platform for the ones planning their own start up who can make their own web pages and attract customers to buy products and this way they can set up their game in the competitive world. We have influences too which can be good if the content presented is for the betterment of the person and which does not have any bad influence on anyone. Then we have our services too which are being provided online for eg doctor consulting online then beauty services also which can be booked online through their own procedures according to comfort of all.

Then we have a food delivery service also online. Then we have effective advertisements also which can help the customer to know the features of the product and help in making a brand name if the quality and the product is reasonable for them. Then the education can be provided online too. We can stay in touch with our family and close ones as we have so many means for eg- Face book, Instagram, skype etc and this keeps us connected with them. We have online modes of payment which is helpful in the circumstances when physical transaction of money cannot take place. If all these ways are more developed, advanced and new innovative ideas are put in the world of technology then we have a scope of bright future ahead. This digital platform is now a fashion and in the upcoming times it is going to be the trend in all fields and the means of communicating with all. Thus, this digital platform is the way ahead and beneficial to the human being and with this we hold a successful future ahead.

ATMANIRBHAR BHARAT – RESURGENT INDIA

Prime Minister Narendra Modi's emphasis on Self-reliant India is Swadeshi economics in other words. In Indian context self reliance should not mean boycotting international trade. India will have to seriously engage with the region and the world but at the same time strengthen its own domestic industry by streamlining the governance system and go far beyond mere amendments and announcements. Gandhiji's Swadeshi movement and self-reliance were two sides of the same coin that would find currency in a globalised world. The global pandemic shows us the benefits of 'Be Indian and Buy Indian' which means that we have to be aware of our own supply chain. We know that relying on different countries for various items will not make us independent but dependent on those countries. To avoid such adversity for ourselves it is important for us to become self-reliant and reduce our dependence on other countries. The pandemic has also taught us the importance of local manufacturing, local market and local supply chain. Emphasis on 'Vocal for local' basically means 'Made in India' and helps to push the Indian products to meet with the other international brands.

India plans to convert COVID-19 crisis to an opportunity and strengthen its fight by becoming self-reliant. Self-reliant India will be realized by Economy, Infrastructure, System, Demography and Demand. It's time to make local products global. A special economic package has been released by the government which will benefit the small and cottage industries, the Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs), labourers and middle class people. To strengthen the Self-reliant campaign 'The 4Ls' have also been emphasized in this package i.e. Land, Labour, Liquidity and Laws. The package also mainly focused on facilitating the employees and employers, businesses, MSMEs to get back to their production and workers back to their gainful employment.

There are underlying issues like Weak manufacturing: India is far behind from its target of achieving manufacturing sector contribution of 25% of the GDP. Currently the Make in India initiative hasn't reached its intended goal and manufacturing is only at about 17% GDP. Dependence on China: India is dependent on China for imports related to electronics, solar equipment, pharmaceuticals and capital goods. Without developing domestic capacity for manufacturing in these areas, breaking away from dependence on China would not be easy.

It is vital to become competitive in pursuance of self-reliance. Being vocal for locals is a key complement of Atmanirbhar Bharat Abhiyan. In this context, people must internalize the concept of valuing local products and artefacts and promoting them. Only after this the dream of transforming 'Local' India into 'Global' India will be possible. Obviously, a Self-reliant campaign and relief packaging puts bold reforms and momentum at the heart of Government's plan to make India a self-sustaining economy so that any other crisis that may emerge in future could be efficiently tackled and will have to make major course changes in developing strategies.

ELECTRIC VEHICLES - A SOLUTION TO GLOBAL POLLUTION

Introduced in the 1800s by a British inventor, Robert Anderson, who developed the first crude electric carriage, electric vehicles (EVs) are seeing a rise in popularity today for many of the same reasons they were first popular.

A major cause of air pollution in the world is the high number of traditional motor vehicles. These vehicles run on petrol/ diesel thus emitting gases like carbon monoxide, nitrogen oxide and hydrocarbons. Air pollution then leads to health problems like asthma, heart diseases, lung cancer and even death!

Unlike traditional motor vehicles, EVs do not run-on petrol/ diesel. Thus, they do not emit any air pollutants. EVs are the solution to combat climate change as they reduce emissions that contribute to it. As EVs are mechanically simpler, there is a decrease in the use and disposal of engine oil, thus improving public health and reducing ecological damage. Charging EVs on renewable energy such as solar or wind energy further minimizes these emissions. Some studies prove that if all cars were electric, 40% of total carbon emissions would be saved.

EVs make less noise too. Use of them ensures a cleaner and quieter world thus improving the quality of life. Other advantages of EVs are low maintenance, convenience, savings, etc.

EVs are the key to reducing our reliance on fossil fuels as they shift consumption away from imported oil to locally manufactured electricity sources. By using EVs, we could reduce our dependence on foreign oil by around 50-60 % while decreasing carbon pollution from the transportation sector by as much as 20%.

Thus, EVs are more eco-friendly and their use seems to be a solution to global pollution. In conclusion, if we want to safeguard our environment for future generations, we must choose EVs over traditional vehicles.

ONLINE EDUCATION V/S IN-CLASS EDUCATION

Today, when online education is becoming a vital part of the education family, almost all major colleges and universities offer distance education, or online, courses. Online education is often called "e-education," is able to reach a broader student audience, address the needs of learners in better ways, and save money. Online courses allow students to take classes while living in different states or in different countries. Some schools offer traditional courses, online distance courses, or hybrid courses; the later includes taking both traditional and online classes. The aim of this essay is to find out whether online learning is better, worse, or equal to traditional in-class learning while analyzing its advantages and drawbacks.

The difference between traditional and online education is especially noticeable in three dimensions: access to learning, classroom space, and the possibility of implementing innovative teaching practices. One of the major characteristics of online education is flexibility; the ability to take classes in any place with an internet connection at any time of the day or night. Traditional classes, on the contrary, are inflexible and much more teacher-centered. Access to information is not limited to materials available in the classroom, and access to the classroom materials is no longer limited to the time of the lesson or to the physical classroom space. Being able to study when and where you like affords students from all walks of life with the availability of obtaining a degree. Whether the student is a young mother who is unable to attend traditional courses due to a lack of a babysitter, or a full-time worker who cannot rearrange their schedule to make the traditional class times, these individuals will be able to obtain a degree regardless of that situation by simply taking online courses. The flexibility offered by the online education gives particular categories of students an important opportunity to meet their educational needs.

On the other hand, the advantage of traditional courses consists in offering students direct contact with teachers. Face to face communication allows students to ask questions concerning their classes and immediately get the answers they seek. Students are also able to meet with their classmates, developing friendships and fostering teamwork. Indeed, learning in front of the PC may not be compared to the charm of going to lectures, living in the campus and visiting student parties, however, all of this has little to do with academic performance. The proponents of online learning argue that the latter offers students more time for digesting the information they receive and responding. They also claim that, while attending distance courses, students are able to better develop the skills needed in conducting open discussions, where each of the students receives more of an equal standing in comparison with a face-to-face discussion. This happens due to the fact that online students can make their responses around the clock with no restrictions, which enhances motivation and involvement on the learner's part. Also, online classes provide easy access to peers all over the world, which facilitates the establishment of a scholar network for the intellectual exchange and collaboration purposes.

The second significant difference between online and onsite education is classroom space. The very concept of online learning has facilitated the invention of another, more suitable term – learning space. Usually, faculty is free to choose between several online applications to encourage interaction through synchronous or asynchronous methods. Such methods work to extend class discussions, offering students the ability to delve deeper into a specific topic, affording students the opportunity to discuss a reading or build off of a lecture.

The third significant difference between the two reviewed educational methodologies is the application of the new online teaching practices considered to be unusual for traditional education. Online learning strategies are known to involve innovative pedagogical technologies that greatly facilitate the process of learning. Collaboration and discussion in a group were limited by classroom space, restricted to a standard lesson time and to the opportunity of being heard and seen in the classroom. Acquisition of these practices by the online education programs has turned them into an efficient and fascinating way of learning.

It is possible to see that there are different benefits to both the traditional education and the online education offered to students in this day and age. There are some individuals who are unable to work without direct classroom instruction; they are auditory learners, not visual ones, and for them the traditional classroom will be the place in which they are able to shine. Other students are visual learners, finding the traditional classroom tedious and boring, with the auditory lectures a waste of time as they have already read all of the material covered in the lecture. While it cannot be stated that one method is better or worse than the other, it can be stated that one method will be better for some students than it will be for others, allowing college students to get the most out of their college experience and providing them with the availability to do it their own way.

IMPACT OF E-COMMERCE ON BUSINESS

Everyone is now familiar with the concept of e-commerce; electronic commerce is basically the process of buying selling transferring or exchanging products, services or information through computer network on the internet.

So basically, we are doing the commerce online with the help of computer network, telecommunication system and Internet. E-commerce has impacted various business models that we are running for years
The impact of e-commerce on business.

Then impact on direct marketing and product promotion
Then impact on the organization's technology
The impact on finance of the business.

The internet has changed many aspects of our life including the way we communicate with each other, and how we do financial transactions. If you are doing transactions with the help of the internet obviously you will choose to purchase your product online with the help of internet, you don't want to go to a particular shopping mall.

Buying products online has its own benefits. We can compare the product on different websites on the basis of its price and discount rates and its specification and when finally, we are satisfied with the product details and cost we can place order on a particular website that is selling the product. So, the company is now spending more money for electronic commerce. The small businesses are shutting down for these commerce forces retailers to open online divisions and it can completely force a small business to shut their doors or change to being completely online.

So, the electronic commerce improves promotion of products and services thorough direct and attractive marketing. They interact with customers and ecommerce creates a new distribution channel for existing products.

The electronic commerce facilitates direct reach to customer and the bidirectional nature of communication which means customer can ask questions and the seller or the merchant will respond to those queries to satisfy their customers.

E-commerce has impacted organization technology and organization learning. Now a business organization has to teach these technologies to freshly appointed staff member and they simply keep tutors. They teach the technologies to core person in the company and to their newly appointed staff members. These companies have to keep a complete IT cell.

With the help of electronic commerce now the company has quickly adapted new technologies and it offers them an opportunity to experiment with new products, services and processes Then the most important impact of electronic commerce is in the area of finance. E-commerce requires special accounting systems. As a merchant, if you don't have your bank account online then you cannot tell your customers to transfer that money from their account to your account.

WOMEN IN CRICKET

Mithali Raj, Smriti Mandhana, Ellyse Perry, these are the people who made the world of cricket better than ever. Remember the time when everyone thought women cannot do sports. But then the revolution came. These women made it happen. One is the first ever woman to score 10000 international runs in the world cricket, another one is the Captain of the England cricket team. They have been so inspiring over the past few years.

Although the world has seen better player before but these women have contributed to the sports immensely. They made it happen, just when nobody had hoped for it. They refused to give up. They worked so hard, made the people of India believe that anything is possible. They made us believe in their dreams. In the past the world of women cricket had never got so much of hope from Indian women cricket players. But, when they went into finals, that was the moment we knew that we would get our Chak de India' moment, they fought and made us see their dream. Even the Indian fans were so proud of them. Although they did not win the finals, yet they were recognized and established as great players when they were playing India vs. Australia finals. That was the moment when people of India recognized them as players and not as female players. That was the power move.

That was the moment of patriotism, the true feeling of dreams. The true feeling of these women now are no less than men. They knew they had to start somewhere somehow They didn't give up. They played so hard and suffered many injuries but refused to fall. Even though they lost the match but they proved so much. In India cricket fans felt the most interested when they qualified for the world cup.

CENSORSHIP OF INTERNET

The internet has a dominating influence over today's world, and it is a central source of information, entertainment and communication. It has been gaining popularity at an amazing rate. The Internet has become an important Communicative tool which brings significant convenience and efficiency for people across the globe. Modern life has become easier and the people of the world have to thank to the immense contribution of the internet technology to communicate and information sharing Apart from information, communication, virtuality the factor of entertainment is another reason why people prefer to surf the internet. However, of all its positive aspects the internet has a dark, negative and an ugly side too. Internet censorship has been a hot topic in recent years because many government organizations have been trying to pass many reforms to help push the censorship of the internet either directly or indirectly - Internet censorship is the control or suppression of what can be accessed viewed or published on the Internet enacted by regulators Individuals and organizations may engage in self-censorship for moral, religious or business reasons to conform to Societal norms due to intimidation or out of fear of legal or other consequences. The extent of internet Censorship varies, on a country-to-country basis.

The question that arises is why there is a need for internet Censorship? Internet censorship can be a protection measure. As the internet is open and comprehensive the quality and authority of internet information is questionable. There are a lot of undue materials online, such as pornography and violence, which undoubtedly exerts a negative influence on people especially children physically emotionally and also psychologically - Although there are several laws which regulate the illegal information and illegal activities, the laws are not complete enough to regulate all the illegal and immoral activities. It is very difficult to charge a person for internet crimes, especially if the person is from a foreign website. Thus, internet Censorship is needed for internet Regulation. The Censorship can cleanse the internet information and protect people to some extent

Furthermore, the censorship of internet can filter the inappropriate information online and protect children from disturbing websites such as, child pornography sexual violence and detailed instructions in crime or drug use. These undue websites are easy to severely affect the healthy growth of children or even cause adolescent Crime. Also, some terrorist organizations also use the internet to influence the thinking and mindset of children and the youth, especially young teenage boys, to join and become terrorists of such organizations in the name of religion. They might also ask other citizens for donations of money by brainwashing them and try to convince them to transfer money into their accounts.

Broadly speaking there are several motives or rationales for internet filtering such as politics and power examples include: political blogs and websites social norms and morals like these sites which include hate speech inciting racism, sexism, homophobia, islamophobia etc sites that promotes drugs prostitution and pornographic sites including child pornography, gambling sites, sites that promote video terrorism, sites promoting illegal or Criminal activities other defamatory and blasphemous content containing sites. A country may also censor the internet for Security Concerns for protecting existing economic interests and copyright last but not the least to safeguard data information about individuals.

Circumvention is another problem faced. Internet censorship circumvention is the process used by technologically Savvy internet users to bypass or break the technical aspects of Internet filtering and gain access to the otherwise censored or blocked material. You can say that it is almost similar to hacking. Circumvention is an inherent problem for those wishing to Censor the Internet because [filtering and blocking do not remove Content from the Internet, but instead block access to it. Therefore, as long as there is at least one publicly accessible uncensored system, it will often be possible to gain access to the otherwise Censored material. However, circumvention may not be possible by non-tech savvy users so blocking and filtering remains an effective means of censoring the internet access of a large number of users. Also, there are risks for such tech savvy users to use circumvention Software or other methods to bypass internet Censorship

Talking about various Internet censorship methods, the general content suppression methods are technical and non technical modes of censorship and also Censorship of users by web service providers or operators Technical censorship is used by various parties for providing public access to undesirable resources with varying levels of effectiveness and side effects. Blacklisting and points of control method is included in technical Censorship method. It also includes the Approaches Method which indices Internet Protocol (IP) Address blocking Domain name system (DNS) filtering and redirection URL Filtering Packet filtering Connection reset Network disconnection Computer network hacks etc. Over and under blocking and use of Commercial filtering software are also other technical methods . The second method is the non-technical method Internet content is also subject to censorship method similar to those used with more traditional media. For example, laws and regulations prohibiting various contents publishers and authors formal or informal requests to remove or alter content in any website con webpage will lawsuits confiscation of equipments boycotting for banning government intervention et

Lastly, Web service providers or cooperators may censor the internet. They may opt for removal of user accounts based on controversial content. Deplatforming is a form of Internet Censorship in which controversial speakers or speech are suspended, banned, or otherwise shut down by social media platforms and other service providers. Official statements regarding site and content removal are another method which is man-technical. It involves prior notice for content removal for other reasons on platforms such as Facebook, Google, Youtube, Twitter.

In conclusion, the censorship of the internet is a double-edged sword. The censorship can work in some instances, but in others it can be detrimental and harmful to society. It might violate people's right of free speech. It limits people to get enough information to fulfill research and study and thus the creativity of people may be discouraged.

Thus, internet Censorship must be supervised as we cannot ignore the other evil effects of internet - Although we must be grateful to the internet and technology that has helped us immensely during the tough times of Covid - 19 pandemic. Internet helped us in online banking, online and virtual classes, online conferences /meetings and video calls, entertainment, etc during the pandemic and is continuing to do so.

LEARNING AND EARNING IN THIS POST-COVID ERA

In the early 2020, all of us had an idea what we were going to do in the future. Most of us had a rough plan for at least a year ahead. Then, at the end of March 2000, the whirlwind called Corona Virus hit us. This sent all of our ambitions and plans into chaos. Education and jobs took the biggest hit in these times.

But colleges and schools have surprisingly dealt with this dire situation with caution. Presently almost all education is strictly conducted online. Exams are conducted via this mode too. The general consensus of students is that in the pandemic, this online education is a relief. However, education online should really be at par with offline education. The biggest question remains unanswered. When can we go back to the offline education?

Workplaces have dealt with the situation in a similar manner. Jobs have been shifted to solely online mode. All people are working from home. This year even interviews were conducted online. However, the downfall of the pandemic was that due to a steep decline in the revenue company earnings, countless people lost their jobs. This has put undue stress on everyone wanting to earn their living.

So, how will this situation turn out in the corporate sector overall is the question that needs to be answered to climb the ladder of success in the world stricken by Covid.

E-SPORTS

When I say I am an E-Sports athlete the first thing that comes up in the mind of people is what E-Sports are. People don't really know what E-sports are at the moment and we need to change that. So, starting an E-sports career is as simple as choosing a game and grinding your skills to be one of the best in the game. But the main question is how we earn through this because if we give our precious time to something we also need to earn through it. For earning through games, we can play tournament and also organize tournament which can be a success or a disaster, I have been through this.

Organizing a tournament is not easy; you need to look for the teams and also the Sponsors of the tournament. What Sponsors need from you should be the main question from your side before going into any contract with them? Your second priority should be what teams need or what difficulties they are facing and take decisions accordingly. So, these are the tips we need to keep in mind as organizers.

IMPACT OF COVID-19 ON EDUCATION SECTOR

We all know how the Covid- 19 has changed the whole world. The impact of pandemic is felt in every sector around the world. The education sector of India as well as the world is badly affected by Covid -19. It has enforced the world-wide lock down creating very bad effect on the student's life. Around 32 corer learners stopped moving to schools and colleges and all education activities came to a halt all of a sudden.

The outbreak of the pandemic has taught us a valuable lesson that the change is inevitable. The pandemic has created many challenges for students as well as teachers.

The impact of the pandemic on students of different age groups has been immense.

Time spent on online classes has increased. Sleeping habits, daily fitness routine and subsequent effect on weight, social life and mental health of students are impacted. Government of India announced that schools and colleges would remain closed and online studies should be encouraged. Hence, teachers started taking online classes that was problematic for them also initially because of lack of technical skills.

Even exams are taken online but here the problem is not solved. There are some students who do not have mobile phones and facility of internet in the phone for attending the online classes.

But gradually we are adapting to the new normal and education sector is brilliantly managing to continue to educate young population against all the odds.
